In modern world many elder people have to live alone. That is why they should be taken care of.

In my opinion, such problem has arisen because elder people are too wick, they can not take care of themselves and need help, but their younger relatives do not want to live with them and help.

The news from the article are very good. With the Fujitsu's monitoring system elder people are well-protected. Also their humanity levels are under vision.

As a conclusion I can say that modern technologies are on a great level, but these are just machines. We should always remember about our elder relatives and pay them much attention.
