Writing.

Nowadays there are a lot of opportunities to study at home without going to school. Some parents believe, that teaching their children at home is better than studying at school. As for me, it's a bad thing for the children. I think studying in a special educational organization has a lot of advantages.

Firstly, it's quite difficult to study when your teacher is your mum or dad. I suppose, that between a student and a teacher mustn't be family relationship, because it distracts a child from his main aim. Parents often emotionally react on some things during the process of education, and it has a bad influence on their child.

Secondly, going to school gives a child an opportunity to make friends. School is one of the best places to socialize. Projects, problems with homework, the breaks between the lessons make children feel that they aren't alone in this world and there are a lot of people, who can support them, or have the same interests.

Thirdly, I'm sure that if parents don't study at a university to be teachers, they won't be able to teach even their child. Parents face to problems during teaching because they don't know basic concept of this process. Every child should get knowledge of good quality, but not just the information, which their parent read on the Internet.

To sum up, there are some reasons for parents to send their children to school. Studying at school is one of the most significant periods in life of every person, and parents shouldn't make their child get rid of it.
